Goodbye, Forums [Autumn]

autumnlibrarian16

I figured the end of the forums were coming, but I hadn't accounted on it happening so soon. While yes, I'm been rather inactive as of late (due to multiple reasons), there was a time where I needed to force myself off of the forums because of the amount of time I would spend on them.

Now, before I mention anything else, I'm going to just say this: I probably will be on Newsfeed and Home Base. But will I be active? No, probably not, unfortunately. In fact, it's likely that I may abandon this place, which is why I'm going to be saying my goodbyes and wishes now.

In no particular order:

@Candy: You were probably one of my closest friends on here. Both you and I have been inactive recently, but I'll never forget the times we talked on our homethreads. Roleplaying with the squad and Viola was really fun -- I enjoyed the chemistry of your group. I don't remember if December's Story was ever finished, but I loved your writing and the ideas you had.

@Vine: You're probably one of the kindest, most entertaining people that I've talked to. Being able to talk to you despite the timezone difference was such a joy, and I loved to hear (or rather, read) your rambles on your homethreads. Seriously, reading your posts almost every morning before school last year really did brighten my day at least a little bit.

@Enchanted: In the fall/winter season of 2017, I looked up to you a lot, and in all honesty, I still do. I think I've mentioned this before, but when I read through your NDRV3 commentary thread despite not knowing anything about Danganronpa, you very literally changed my life by indirectly introducing me to the series, which was the foundation for one of my closest friendships irl. Your ideas, art, and writing skills are all incredible, and so are you.

@Riri: I know you've been slightly inactive as of late, but I just want to say you're an amazing person. You've been incredibly positive and kind, and I really look up to you in terms of being supportive. Thanks for all those advice threads, rps, and stories. I'll probably be left to wonder the ending of Rhythm Access for years (at least months) to come, but I enjoyed it.

@Moonflight: Without a doubt, you're probably the person I'd say is the most fun to roleplay with. I always enjoyed reading through your character and roleplay ideas, and I admired how you always managed to push whatever roleplay it was to its limits. Your homethread is one of my favorites, and I really wish we were able to talk more.

@Specter/Bixbite: We haven't talked very much as of late, but I want you to know that you're amazing and an incredible artist. I know I probably sound incredibly redundant at this point, but talking to you was a joy.

@Clever, @Cleaver, @Necromancer, @Vulcantus, @Time, @Galaxian, and @Eureka: All of you guys are great people, and while I haven't been able to talk to all of you very much, I just want you to know that I'll probably miss you guys if I do in fact leave. Sure, we may not talk, but I read what you guys post, and that's what I'll miss.

@Anyone not here: I probably haven't interacted with you much, but know that as I've been inactive, that probably doesn't mean much. You're great -- don't let anyone, especially not yourself, tell you otherwise.

And if I do leave or vanish mysteriously: I wish everyone the best of luck in life. Accomplish your goals, and make sure to take care of yourself.

@Autumn - Thank you so so much! Hearing (reading?) those compliments from you mean the world to me; I greatly admire and value you and your opinion. It is very satisfying to know that I've been able to give you enjoyment! I completely agree that we should've talked more, as it is with most relationships. I am very grateful to have known you through the forums, and to have experienced your own roleplays, creativity, and companionship. I regret that I couldn't have known you for longer (I mean, I kind of will? but you aren't going to be as active on NF, soo...), but I am very happy that I was at the very least able to be acquainted with you in the first place. Thank you, not just for your kind words, but for making the WoFMB a fun and appealing place that I have come back to, time and time again, and will continue to on HB. Good luck in life, and may you look back on this fondly.

I'm not sure what to say except thank you so much! That means a lot to me. I consider you someone that's always been there for me, and I'm really glad to have gotten to know you better over the year and that I was able to do something for you

Bye Autumn, I hope you have an awesome amazing life because you're a great person. It was fun knowing you (albeit not too well) but I remember when we were both kinda just chilling on Vine's homethreads. It was fun.
